

The Legacy of Folke Bernadotte – a Lecture by Lina Frödin

Count Folke Bernadotte, the United Nations Security Council's first mediator, died in Jerusalem in 1948. In the end of the Second World War he led the rescue of 20.000 people from the concentration camps, many of them Jews. The project manager for Folke Bernadotte Academy's work here, Lina Frödin, will give an account of the Academy's work. The Folke Bernadotte Academy is a state administrative authority for peace and security, named after this remarkable man.
